

Voler Strategic Advisors Certified as a Minority Business Enterprise by the National Minority Supplier Development Council

Second certification earned by the company in 2016

San Jose, Calif., (December 24, 2016) – Today, San Jose-based management consulting firm, Voler Strategic Advisors, announced that the National Minority Supplier Development Council has certified them as a Minority Business Enterprise (MBE).

“As an organization that promotes diversity and inclusion, we understand the power of being able to access different points of view,” stated Perla Rodriguez, Chief Executive Officer, Voler Strategic Advisors. “This certification connects us to a network of companies equally committed to increasing supplier diversity.”

Earlier this year, Voler Strategic Advisors was certified as a California Small Business by the California Department of General Services.

With a mix of PhDs, JDs, MPAs and MBAs within its ranks, Voler Strategic Advisors is a firm that puts an emphasis on leveraging its collective intellectual capital to help clients build capacity, facilitate change, and achieve their objectives.

About Voler Strategic Advisors: Headquartered in the Silicon Valley, Voler Strategic Advisors is a management consulting firm offering effective, creative solutions to complex problems. Our team of distinguished, diverse, highly experienced, and skilled professionals serve many organizations and industries throughout the country.

For more information, visit our website at: www.volersa.com.